

Community

Even though the community of Counter-Strike: Global Offensive can be quite infuriating to deal with, there certainly members which will help you to keep your head up while playing this awesome game. The Community always has been a big part of Counter-Strike and has built their own net of servers, maps and other things to help you out. One of those things are the community guides on Reddit and on the steam community page, as mentioned before, but that is not all.

